

Special Issue
What we have learnt: Advances, pitfalls and remaining questions of OMC research

European Integration online Papers

<http://eiop.or.at/eiop/>

Kröger, Sandra (ed.), 2009, What we have learnt: Advances, pitfalls and remaining questions of OMC research. European Integration online Papers, Special Issue 1, Vol. 13.

Table of contents:

Introduction

Kröger, Sandra: The Open Method of Coordination: Underconceptualisation, overdetermination, de-politicisation and beyond

Theoretical issues

Pfister, Thomas: Governing the knowledge society: Studying Lisbon as epistemic setting

Hartlapp, Miriam: Learning about policy learning. Reflections on the European Employment Strategy

Dawson, Mark: EU law 'transformed'? Evaluating accountability and subsidiarity in the 'streamlined' OMC for Social Inclusion and Social Protection

The political economy of open coordination

Schäfer, Armin / Leiber, Simone: The double voluntarism in EU social dialogue and employment policy

Niechoj, Torsten: Does supranational coordination erode its national basis? The case of European labour market policy and German industrial relations Büchs, Milena: The Open Method of Coordination – Effectively preventing welfare state retrenchment?

Flear, Mark L.: The Open Method of Coordination on health care after the Lisbon Strategy II: Towards a neoliberal framing?

Radulova, Elissaveta: The construction of EU's childcare policy through the Open Method of Coordination

The OMC on the ground

Weishaupt, J. Timo: Money, votes or 'good' ideas? Partisan politics and the effectiveness of the European Employment Strategy in Austria and Ireland

López-Santana, Mariely: Having a Say and Acting: Assessing the effectiveness of the European Employment Strategy as an intra-governmental coordinative instrument

Vanhercke, Bart: Against the odds. The Open Method of Coordination as a selective amplifier for reforming Belgian pension policies

Horvath, Anna: What kind of consensus? Conflicting notions of effectiveness within the Social Protection Committee online

open access

peer-reviewed

free service

Publisher:
ECSA
Austria

The "European Integration online Papers" is the only peer reviewed SSCI indexed E-journal in the interdisciplinary field of European integration research.